There are cruisers to the Mediterranean and the Caribbean, but also to the fjords of Norway. Plus there are river cruisers along the Rhine, the Danube or the Nile.

I see we both like going to Spain. What about one of these Mediterranean cruises well? Onp's Mediterranean cruise sails from Southampton and over the following two days travels through the straits of Gibraltar before its first stop at Barcelona, and the Classic cruisers that sails from Rome with a return flight from a range of UK airports included in the price.

PART 1

Question 1-10

Question 1-5

Which cruise holiday matches the description?

Write the correct letter, A-E next to Questions 1-5

A

O&P Caribbean cruise

B

O&P Mediterranean cruise

C

Classic Mediterranean cruise

D

Nordic Norwegian fjord cruise

E

Eurocruise Rhine cruise

1 The agent talks about coastal features.

2 The agent has been on this cruise.

3 The agent speaks about the food.

4 The agent mentions shopping.

5 This cruise combines some of the interests of the customer's wife.

So the two cruises are more or less the same, not really. Classic Cruises specializes in history with talks by experts and visits to famous historic sites like Pompeii and Athens.

On P is more leisure orientated. My wife does like relaxing on a beach well on p's two-week Caribbean crews visit some of the world's most beautiful beaches. The turquoise waters are sensational, like classic cruisers. They offer a choice of flights from UK airports to Bermuda, where the ship is moored.

That's great, but I worry that it may be a bit too hot, and if the weather's bad, we could get seasick well. You may want to consider a river cruise or a cruise along the Norwegian fjords. I've been on nordic's cruise, and it's fantastic. If you're unlucky it can be a little choppy when you cross the North Sea from Felixstowe.

But after that the fjords are as calm as a mill pond. Plus the views are spectacular and the food is excellent. Serving up a Scandinavian smorugg as board. The Rhine Cruise avoids rough seas obviously, but it's great plus it is the standard of accommodation with no inner cabins. You can stop at beautiful historic cities which are great for sight-seeing and shopping as well as lying on the beach.

My wife loves shopping. In that case you may want to consider on p's Mediterranean crews. That's great, but what are the prices? This is where that Mediterranean cruise is real value for money.

Questions 6-10Complete the below.Write A NUMBER for each answer.
Accommodation type	O&P Caribbean cruise	O&P Mediterranean cruise	Classic Mediterranean cruise	Nordic Norwegian fjord cruise	Eurocruise Rhine cruise
Cruise duration	14 nights	6 Type correct answers here	7 nights	7 nights	7 nights
Inside cabin	£2,179	£1,099	8 £ Type correct answers here	£8493	—
Sea view cabin	£2,549	£1,199	£1,329	£1,049	£1,595
Balcony cabin	£2,759	£1,799	£1,539	£1,249	£1,745
Stateroom/suite	£5,559	£2,399	9 £ Type correct answers here	—	10 £ Type correct answers here
On-board spend per cabin up to	7£ Type correct answers here		Drinks, Wi Fi & crew gratuities £40pp per day	Cabins for solo travellers@ £1,699pp

Have a look at this list. Like on p's Caribbean crews, it's also a fortnight long, but its cabins can be less than half the price.

Well the Caribbean cruise is expensive but I guess you get what you pay for, it being so far away and all true.

And you've got to remember that O. P offers you up to 700 pounds credit per cabin to spend while you're on board. And it's a lot cheaper than the Classic Cruise Trip that's true, but the standard of service on Classic Cruise makes it worth it. Mind you. Though the cheapest cabins are 1100 and 39 pounds, 40 pounds more than own pe's Mediterranean crews, their most expensive is 200 pounds cheaper.

The Norwegian Cruise also looks good value that's true, and you can get their best cabin with a balcony for less than a mid-range cabin on most other cruises cheaper than the Rhine Cruise.

That's for sure. What's that two and a half 1000 for their suite? It's mita true, but you will be in the lap of luxury. Well. I think I'll have to think about all of this thanks for all your help.

Thank you and please come back in if you have any other questions.
